

ANNA LEONHARDT

*1981 in Pforzheim, Germany
Lives and works in New York City and Berlin

Anna Leonhard uses paint as a corporeal material that she paints on the canvas, but then dematerializes again through countless layers and continuous removal and sanding of layers. The result is horizontal and vertical layering that can be read as landscape and figure, but still consists of the pure and pure waves of colored light.

